

FUNDACIÓN CEPESA DONATES FUEL CARDS TO CAMPO DE GIBRALTAR FOOD BANK

- The cards can be used to buy fuel for the vehicles used by the organization in its charity work
- The donation was made following the participation by Cepsa volunteers, and their families, in the Food Bank's Great Collection campaign.

Fundación Cepsa in San Roque has donated fuel cards worth 1,000 euros to the Campo de Gibraltar Food Bank to buy fuel for the vehicles the organization uses to carry out its charity work.

On behalf of Fundación Cepsa in San Roque, Estrella Blanco presented this donation to the head of the Food Bank, José Serrano, who praised the excellent results of the previous Great Food Collection which resulted in the donation of 140 tons of food, a great expression of solidarity by the population of Campo de Gibraltar.

This donation from Fundación Cepsa was part of the campaign to collect food organized on 22 November and 23 December by the Spanish Food Banks, in which Cepsa staff and their families in Spain were involved via the 'Voluntas' Corporate Volunteering Program. Through its Foundation, Cepsa wanted to acknowledge the charitable work of its staff and decided to donate a fuel card for every volunteer involved in the initiative.

Fundación Cepsa helps to organize the food collection campaigns in the district. Furthermore, two charity Food Bank projects in Campo de Gibraltar received Social Value Awards in 2009 and 2012. These awards are made annually to raise awareness of, and provide funding to, initiatives run by organizations and groups working to enhance the well-being and social inclusion of people in Campo de Gibraltar.

Fundación Cepsa's charitable work

Fundación Cepsa is in charge of channeling the company's charitable work into activities focused on the social needs of the communities and towns in which Cepsa has a presence. The Social Value Awards are one of its most well-known annual activities, supporting the charitable work of projects in Spain and abroad by means of donations of more than 400,000 euros.
