

Volunteering, Inclusion, and Biodiversity: This Is How Fundación Moeve Drives Its Most Sustainable Week

- The initiative, framed within World Environment Day, has mobilized the company's professionals in social and environmental impact actions.
- More than 120 Moeve volunteers have participated in inclusion, recycling, and wildlife protection activities

To celebrate Volunteer Week, Fundación Moeve carried out a variety of environmental activities at its different work centers, coinciding with World Environment Day on June 5th.

During this initiative, the company's professionals participated in various activities focused on environmental protection, raising environmental awareness, and improving biodiversity. These activities reinforce Moeve and its foundation's commitment to sustainable development. In San Roque, Volunteer Week took place over three days, with a total of 125 volunteers participating.

One of the initiatives was collaborating with the APADIS association, an organization that works with individuals with intellectual disabilities. Together, they designed, assembled, and decorated mini igloos for recycling, promoting social inclusion and environmental awareness. Eighty volunteers from Moeve in San Roque participated, including Moeve's Energy Parks Director, Antonio Joyanes, and the Director of the San Roque Energy Park, Rosendo Rivero.

Meanwhile, a group of 45 volunteers traveled to the Vega de la Motilla farm in Los Barrios for an activity organized with Plant for the Planet. During the day, the participants built nest boxes for birds, bats, and insects to contribute to the creation of shelters for local fauna. They also created two water ponds to provide different species with easier access to water resources.

Estrella Blanco, the head of Fundación Moeve in Cádiz, said, "Volunteer Week reflects the real commitment of Moeve's people to their environment. Activities like those carried out in San Roque contribute to environmental protection and strengthen collaboration with social organizations, highlighting the positive impact we can generate by working together."

Volunteer Week is one of Fundación Moeve's main initiatives to promote the social involvement of its employees, fostering values such as sustainability, cooperation, and respect for the natural environment.

Through these actions, Fundación Moeve reinforces its commitment to the environment and the communities in which it operates by promoting corporate volunteering as a key tool for generating a positive impact. This aligns its activities with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Fundación Moeve is a general interest organization and non-profit whose objective is to carry out initiatives aimed at serving the needs and priorities of local communities. Its priority areas of action are people, biodiversity, and social innovation.
